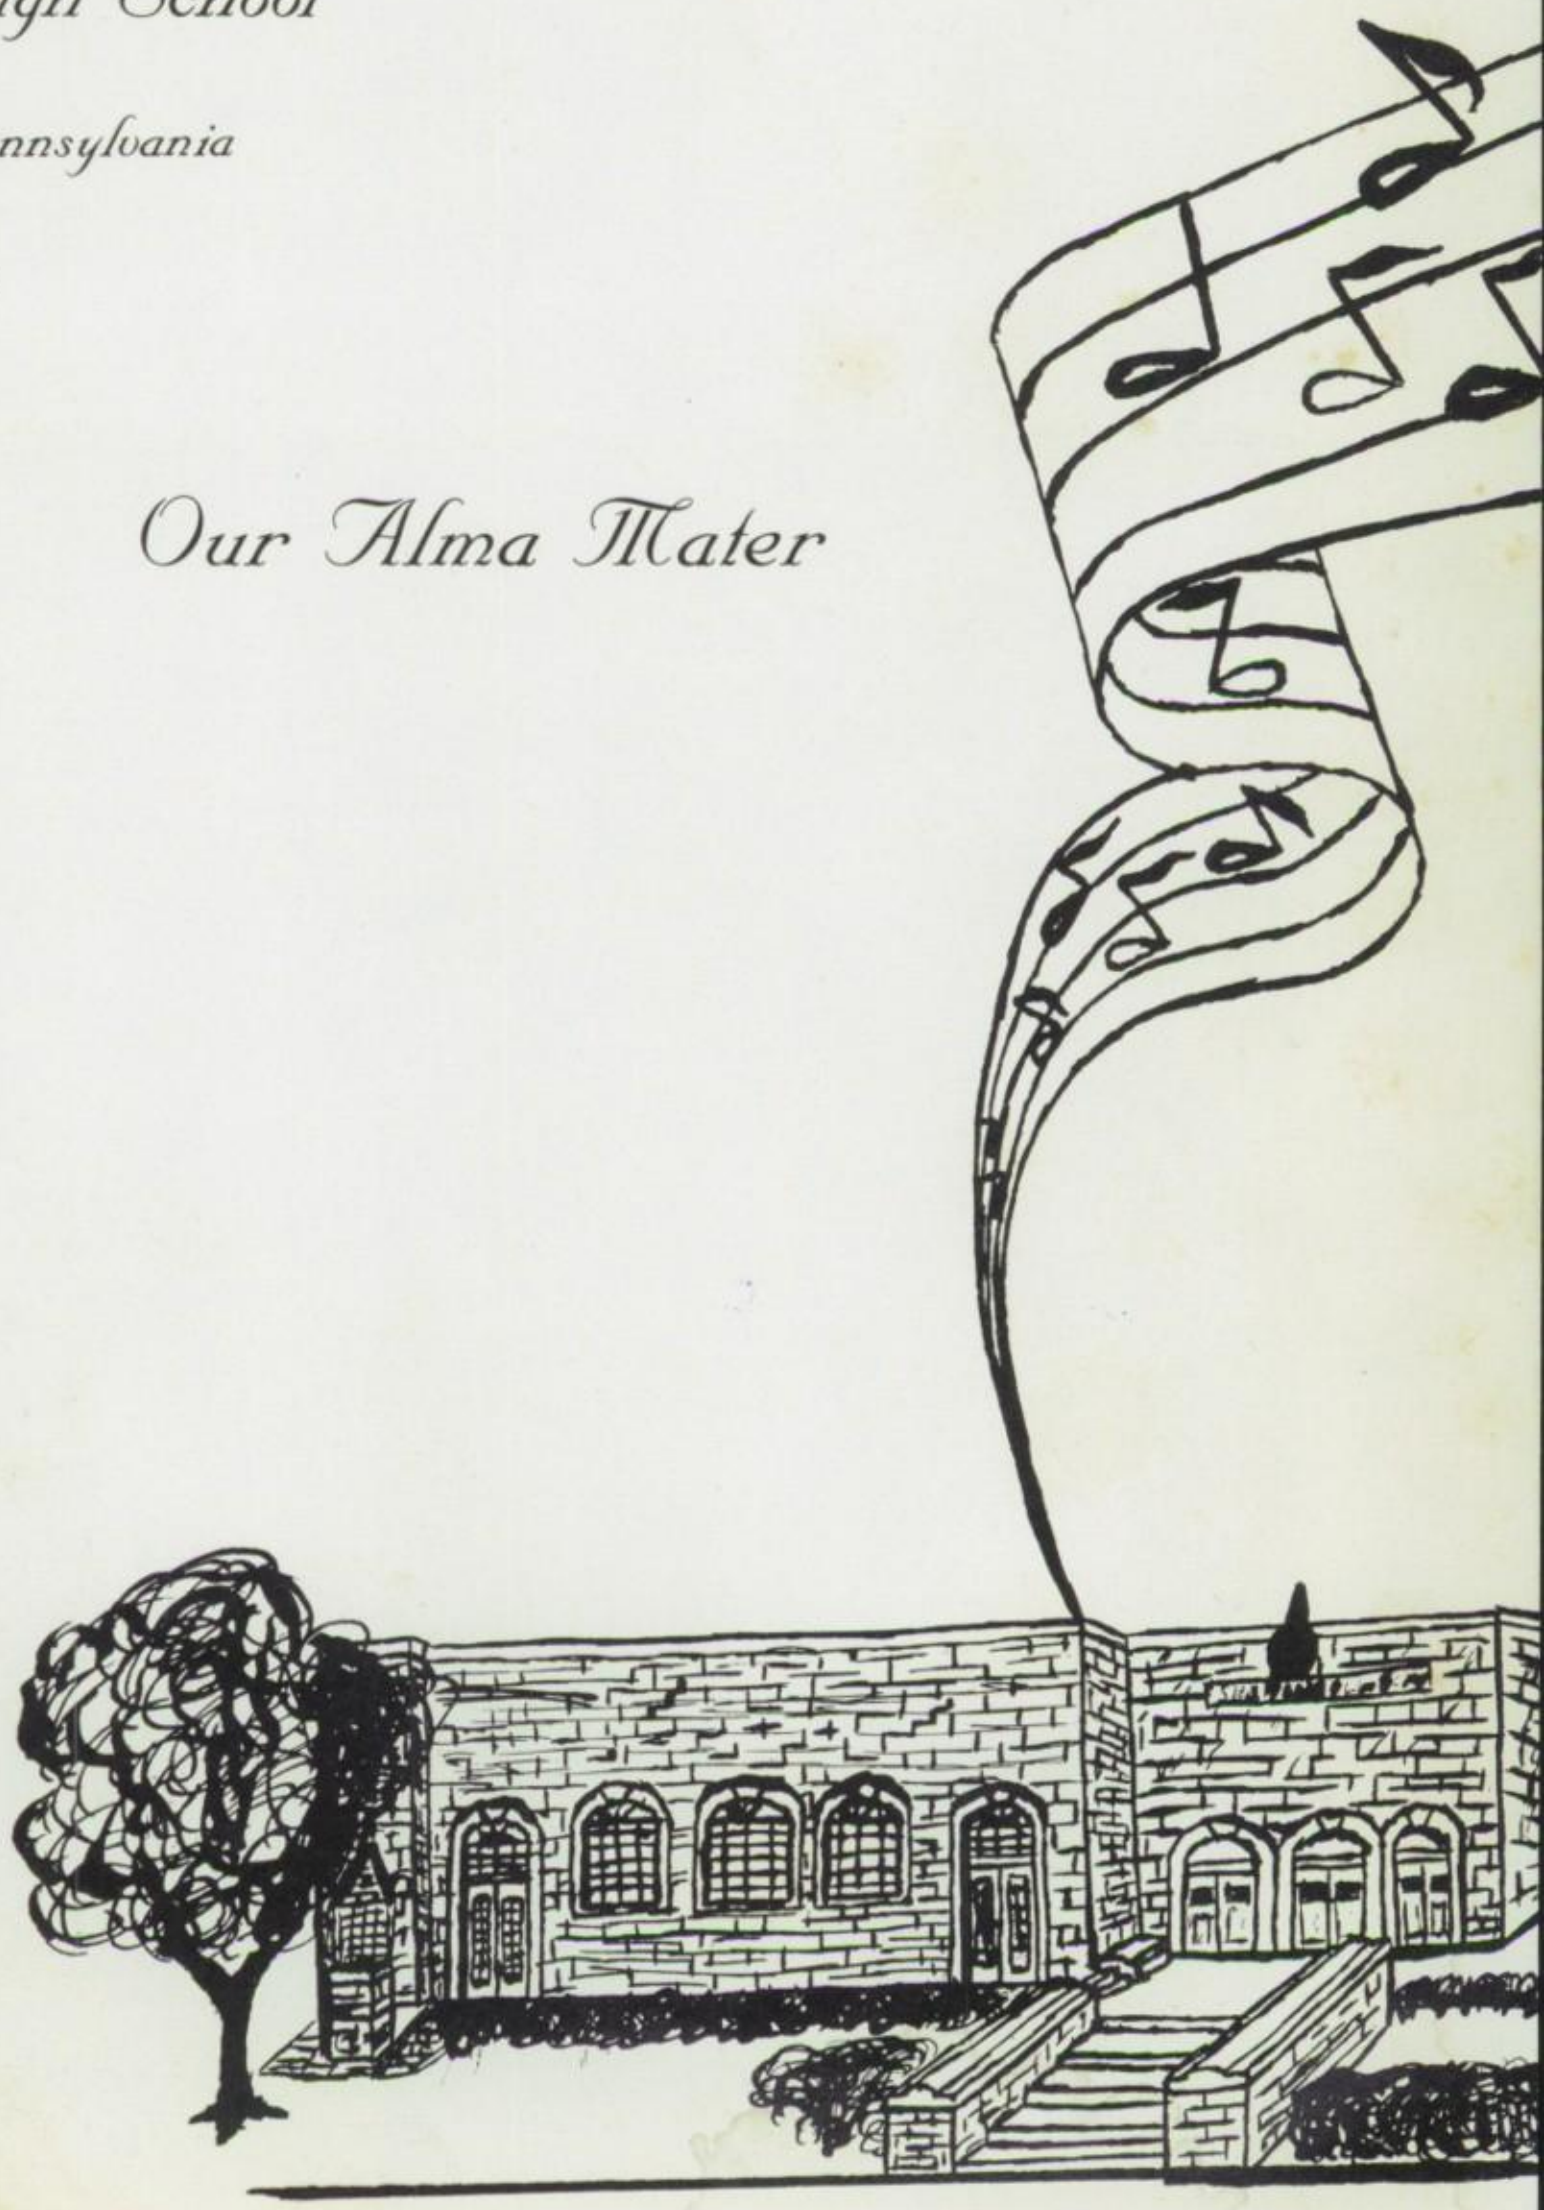
Our Alma Mater



We Honor . . .

MISS RACHEL H. MacBETH

Sans nombre sont les pensées que nous remettons
A quelqu'une gentille et aimable,
Qui nous fait nous rappeler
De sa patience, sa louange et de son inspiration
A ce jour mémorable.

When we remember our teachers and friends, one name we must include is Miss MacBeth.

Room 30; Latin, French, and English; Miss MacBeth—these are synonyms to many students and graduates of Sharon Hill High School. The loss of such a devoted teacher saddened the hearts of many of her present and former students.

Her smiling face, her pleasant ways, her wavy hair—these paint a picture of a wonderful person.

She found great joy in helping her students achieve their goals and uphold high ideals. Some of her greatest satisfaction came from seeing new members take on the pledge of the National Honor Society, which she sponsored.

Since 1945, she has unselfishly devoted her services to Sharon Hill High School. For this, we honor you, Miss MacBeth, our friend and teacher.

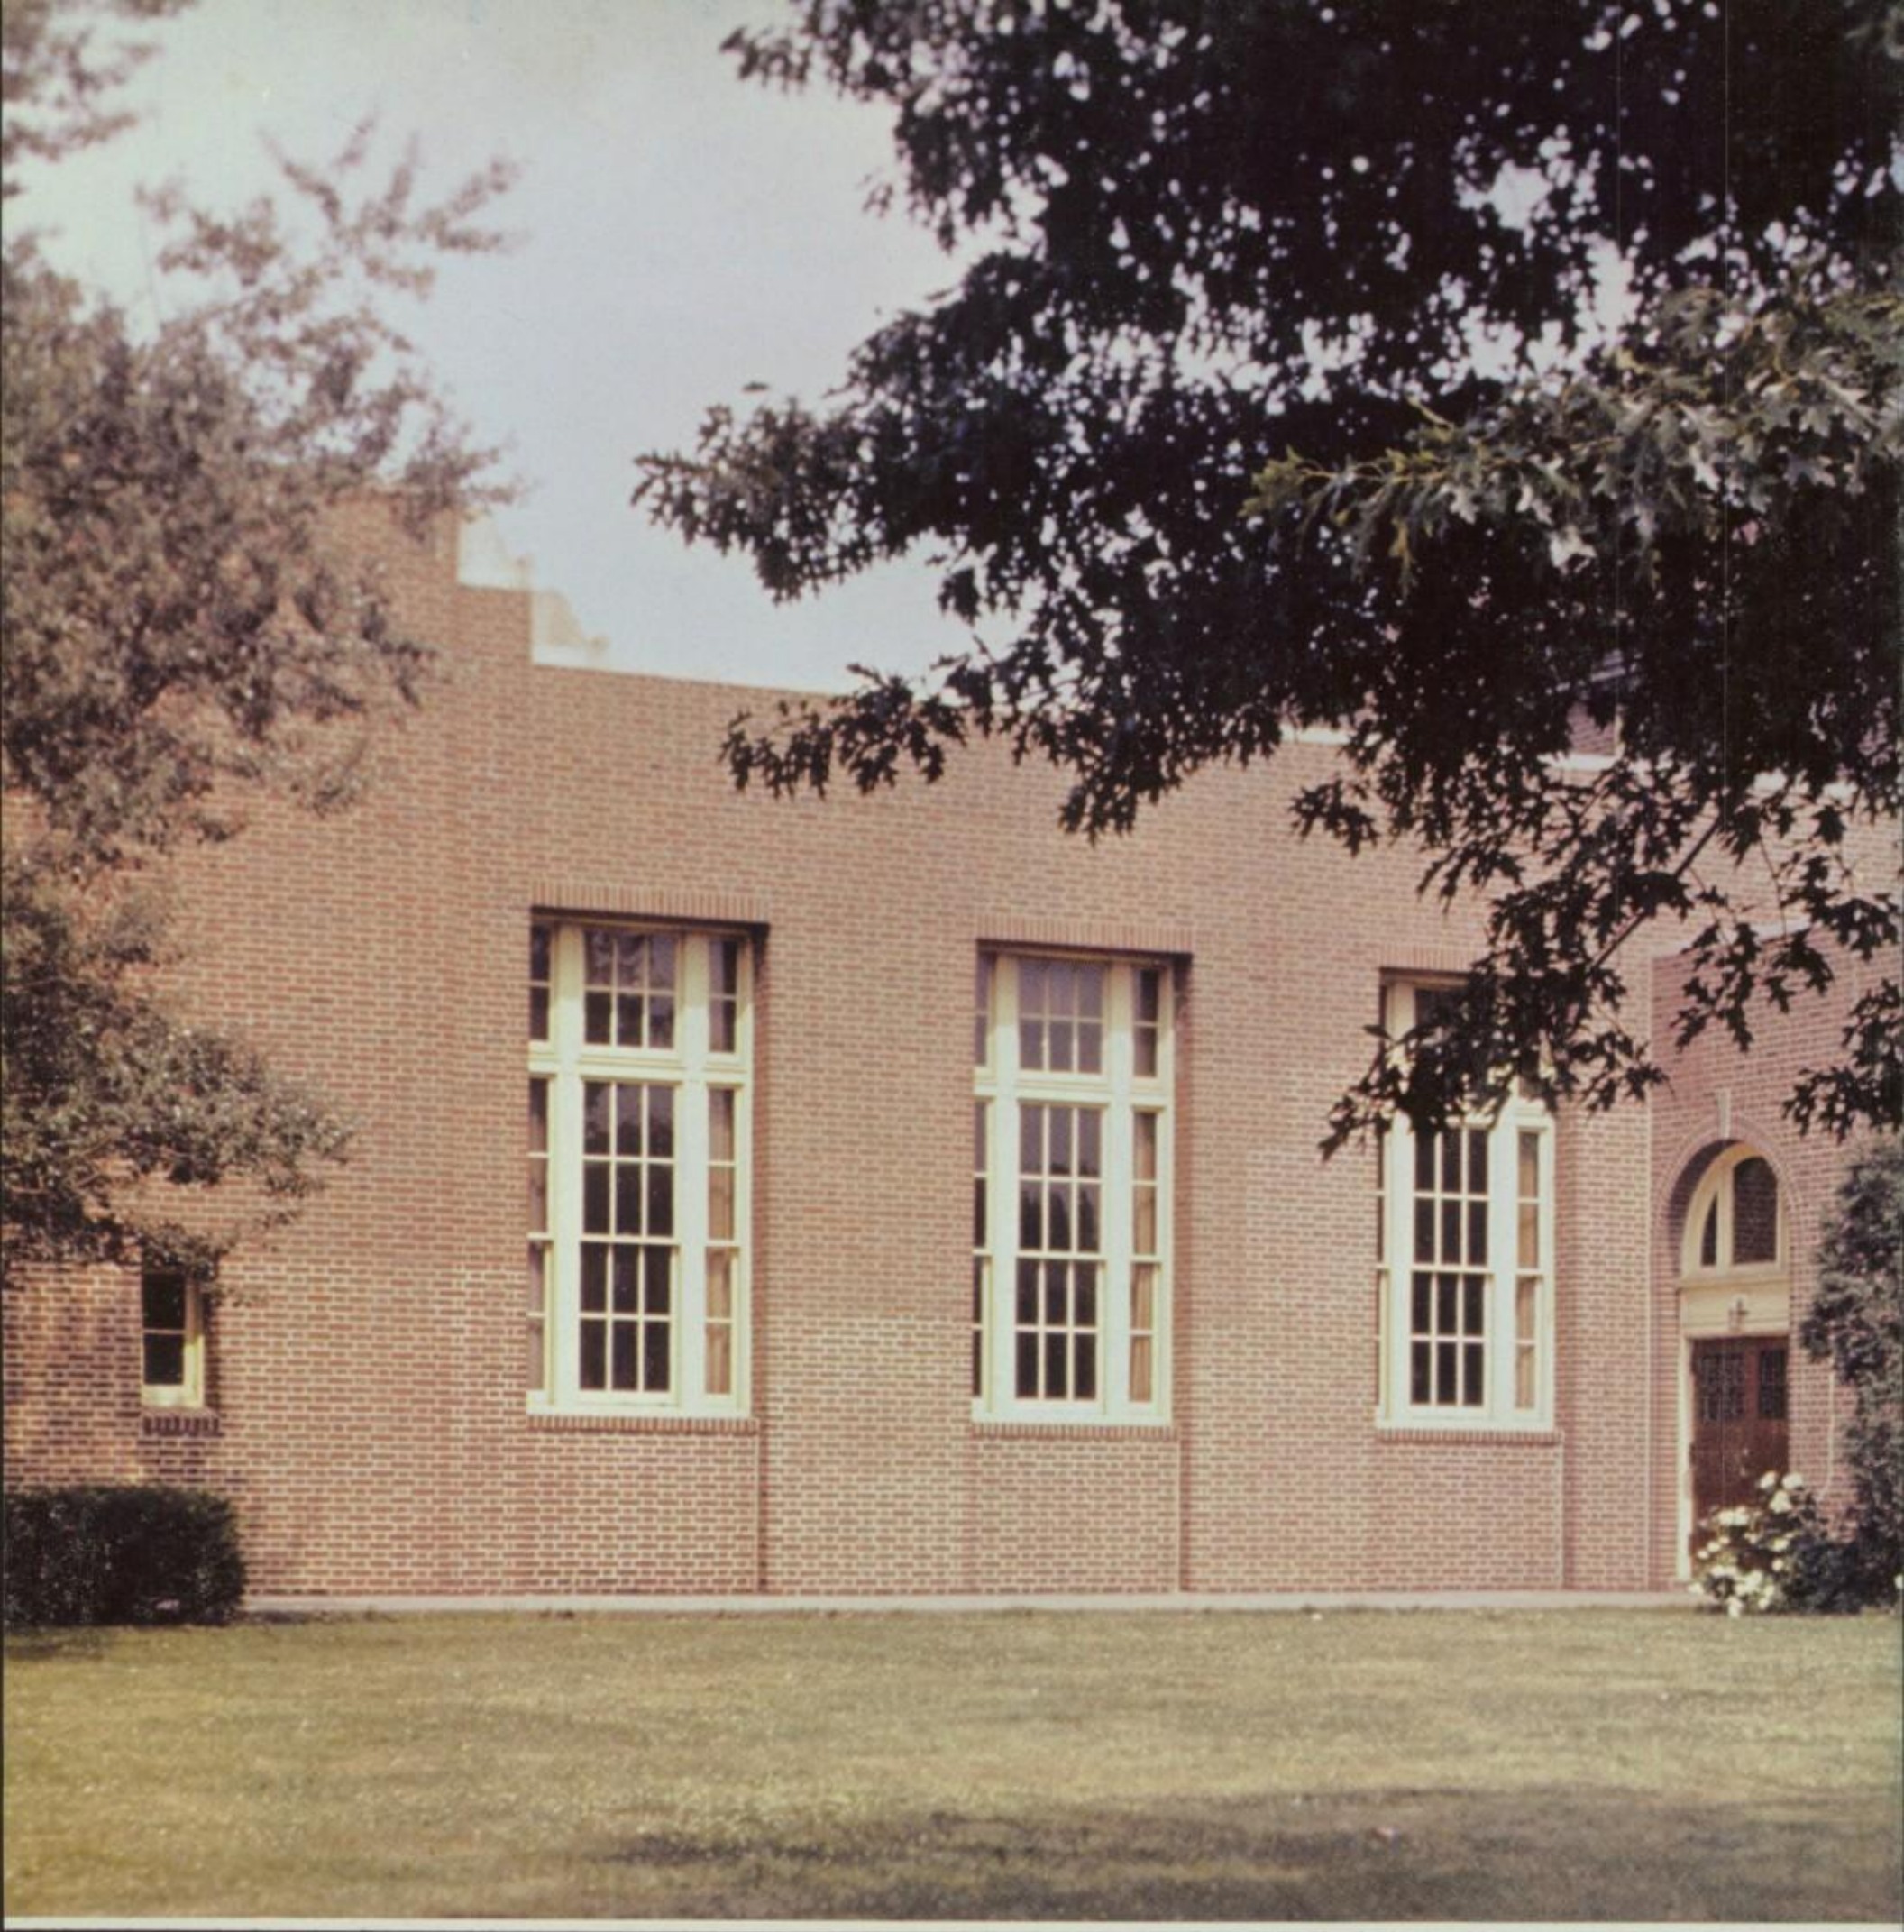
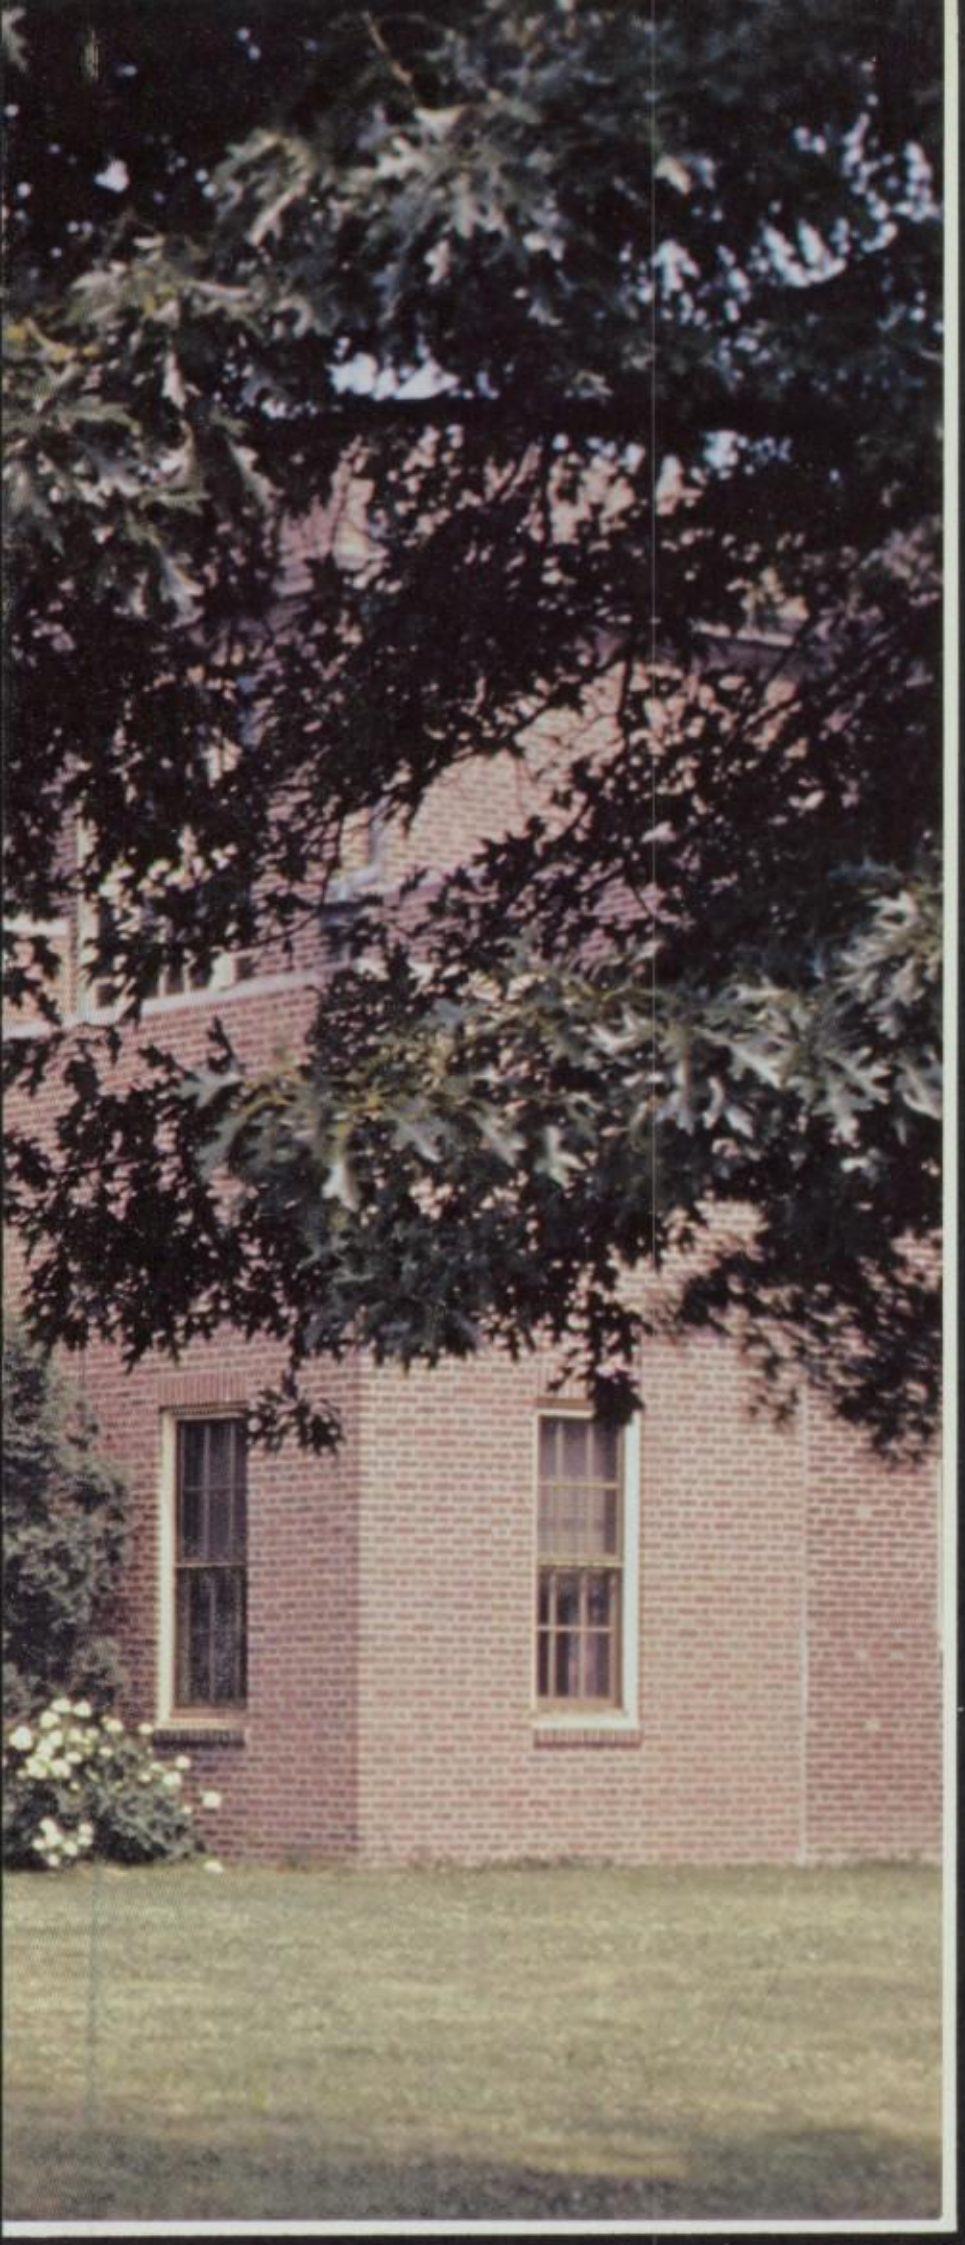
Foreword

As we compiled this yearbook, we endeavored to show you the happiness, sadness, trials, and tribulations of our final year in Sharon Hill High School.

While trying to keep our cherished memories alive, this yearbook brings to you our friends and classmates at work and play. The hours of happiness, moments of sadness, and dreams of success all blend into this pause in our life—the end of past challenges and the beginning of new goals.

We, the staff of the 1961 OWL, hope you will enjoy reminiscing with us as we present Sharon Hill High School, "Our Alma Mater."





DEAR SHARON HILL

Mary Kerr '34

There's a school that I love,
In a spot most fair,
My dear old Sharon Hill.
Within her walls I've dwelt sometime,
And seeking, found life's treasures so rare.
Through youth's golden hours you've led me aright,
With precepts divinely fair.
Close, close to my heart I hold the ideals,
You have enshrined with ever loving care.

There's a glow in our hearts as we view her there,
Midst the green and the sheen of the trees;
With her portals flung wide and halls so grand,
'Neath Old Glory flung out to the breeze grand,
The friendship of classmates and teachers so dear,
Our longings for kindness appease, the tears come.
Unbidden and silently fall,
To think that these will soon be memories.

CHORUS

Then to dear Sharon Hill, I will give my acclaim,
That wise friend and guide of my youth.
So through all my days I will sing her praise,
She stands for Honor, Loyalty, and Truth.

In 1934, the first graduating class was asked by the principal, Mr. Johnston, to write a school song. Mary Kerr was inspired by the beautiful scenes and estates that comprised Sharon Hill at that time. Her Alma Mater was selected as the best and has been echoing throughout the halls of Sharon Hill ever since.

College-Bound

To start off the year, the College Preparatory and Academic students chose their subjects.

Minimums vary for the two tracks. The College Prep course requirements are much higher. Four years each of English, history, mathematics, science, and foreign languages are necessary.

The Academic course requires four years of English and history, three years of science and mathematics, and two years of a foreign language.

This year, the chemistry students are fortunate in having a completely renovated laboratory which has four new desks capable of accommodating thirty-two people and a separate lecture area. This certainly should be an incentive to higher science goals.

Business Hopefuls

Beginning this year the Business course was divided into two groups—stenographic and clerical.

The clerical sequence offers a well-rounded course for general clerical workers. Included in their offerings are courses in typing, clerical practice, bookkeeping, and office machines.

The stenographic course stresses shorthand and transcription. Pupils taking this course receive a Stenographic diploma showing they have studied the general business subjects plus shorthand.

Continuing for the second year, Sharon Hill has resumed the work experience program. Outstanding business students may go to school in the morning and work in the afternoon.

The expansion of the curriculum offers the students a better opportunity to select a course for their individual desires.

Workers-To-Be

The Practical Arts course has been designed to help our students prepare for the working side of life.

Before the students are introduced to the major courses of their field, they study science, mathematics, and history. After this general background, the boys major in shop, mechanical drawing, art, and materials of industry. The girls, in turn, specialize in fabrics, home economics, and art. Personal typing is offered as an elective on both the junior and senior level.

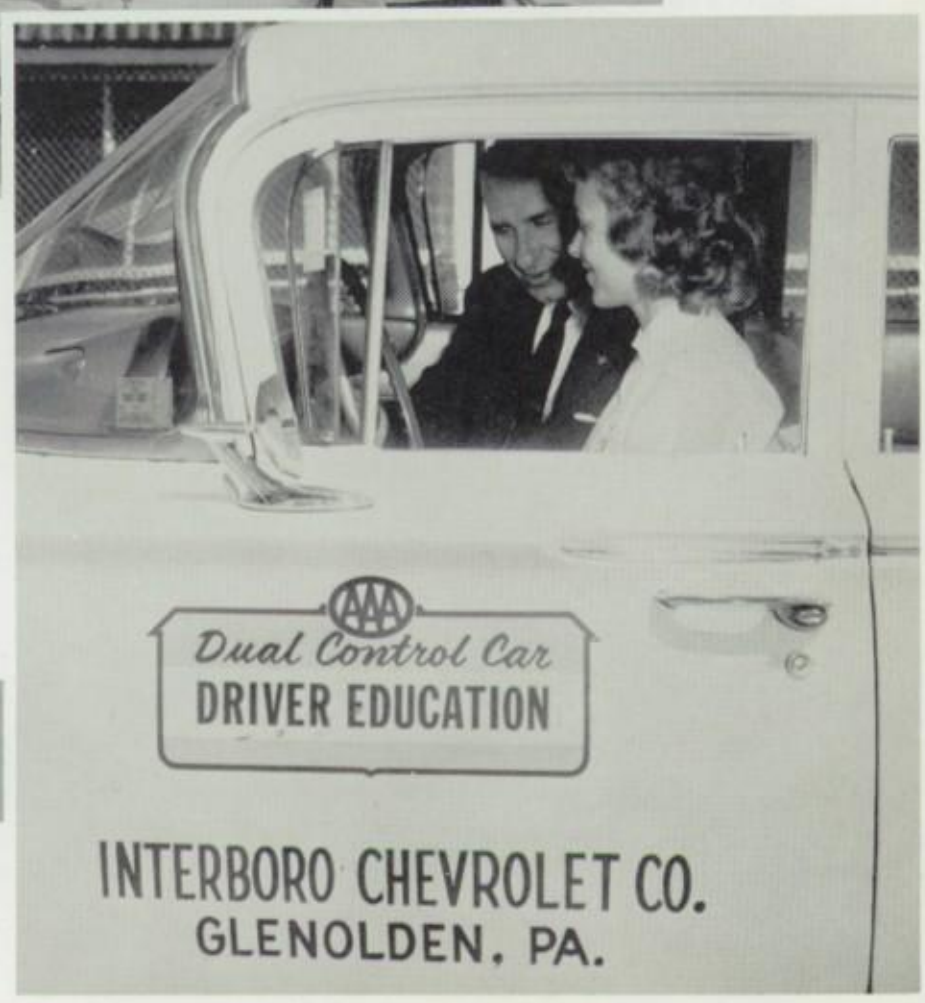
This broad background and specialized training offers the students preparation for careers in trade or industry upon graduation.

Everyone's Essentials

Each year, all students are required to take two periods of physical education. This course offers an insight into sports, physical fitness, and certain fundamentals to help stay trim.

Guidance, a necessary part of every school, uses the experience and wisdom of the guidance counselor to help students select their colleges and vocations. Also, guidance helps our seventh graders become better acquainted with our school system and its rules.

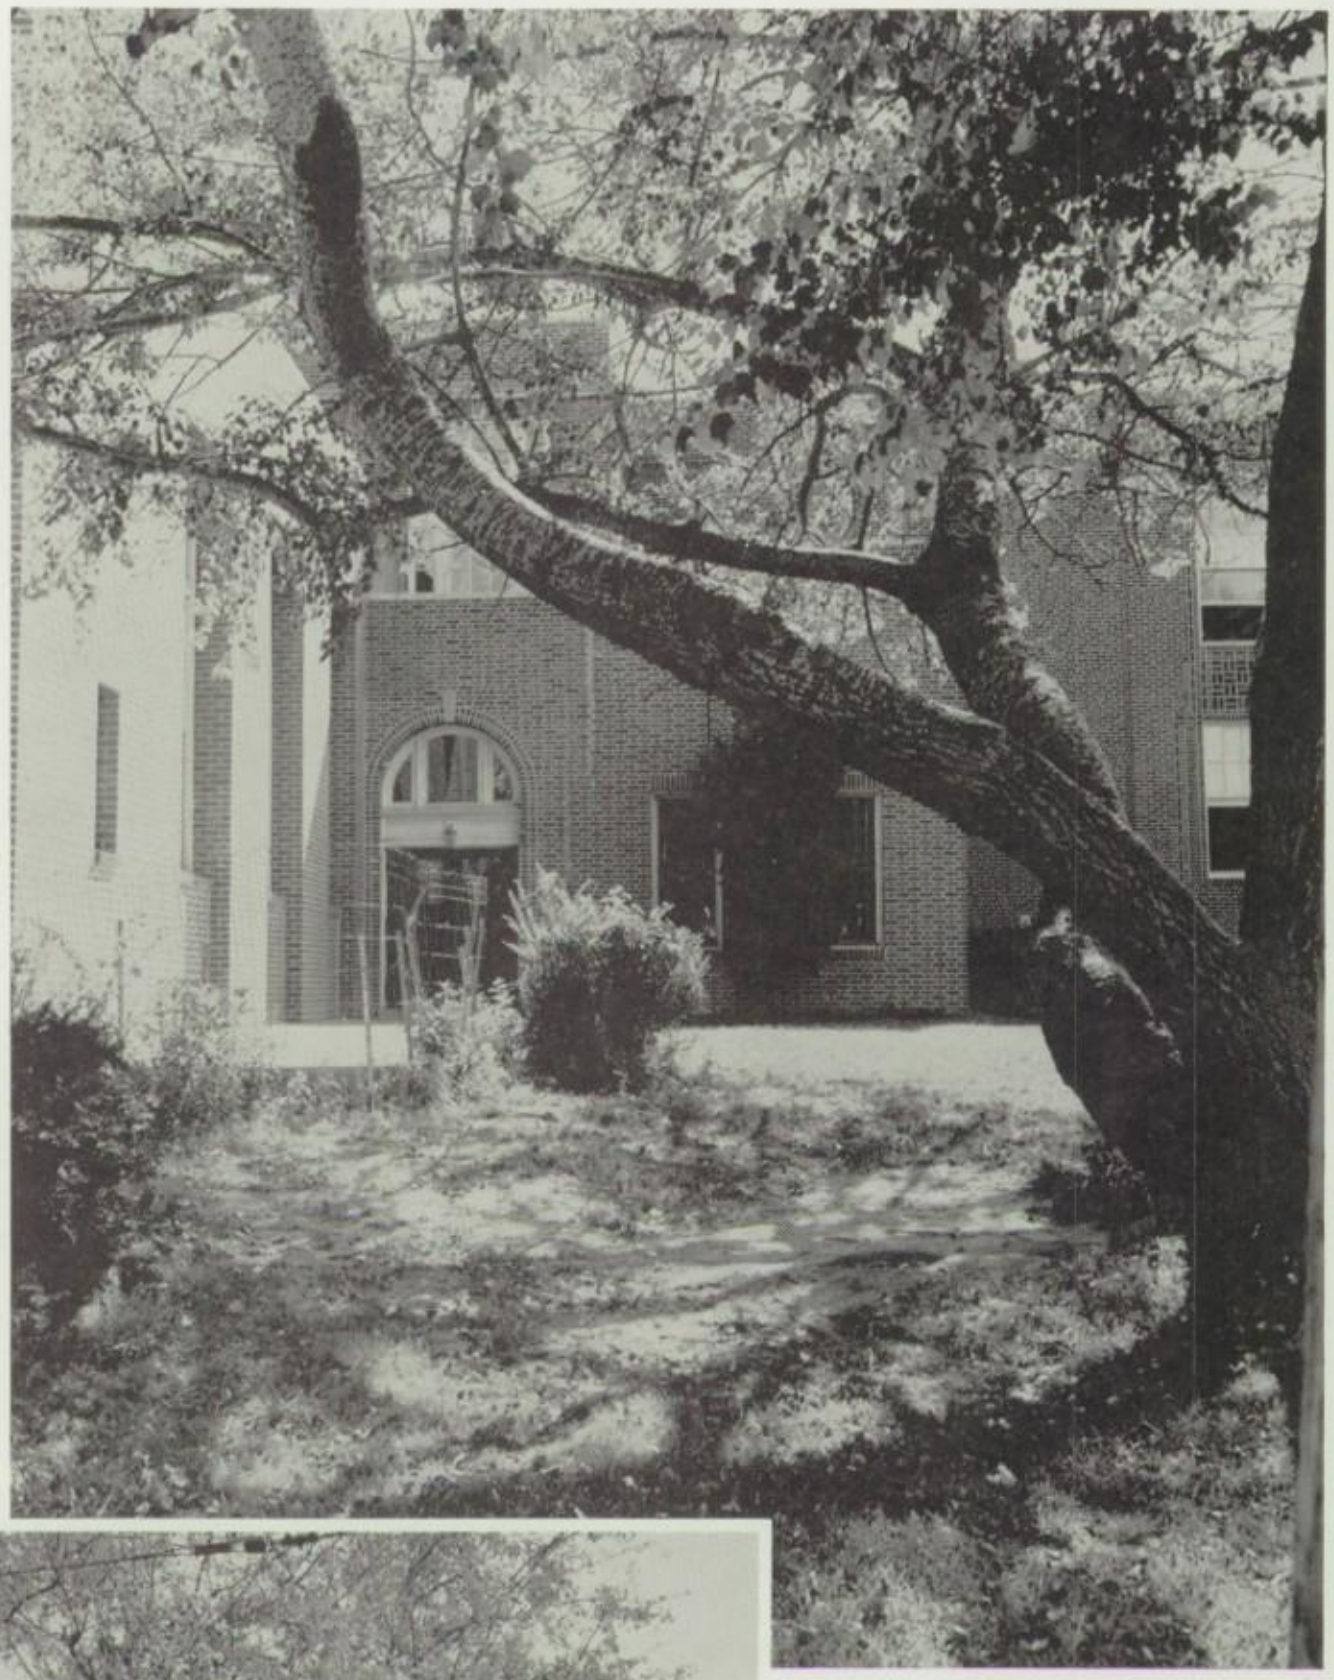
Driver education proves to be a popular junior subject. Mr. Marshall, one of Pennsylvania's most diligent workers for highway safety and courtesy, does much to make Sharon Hill a good place to live and drive.

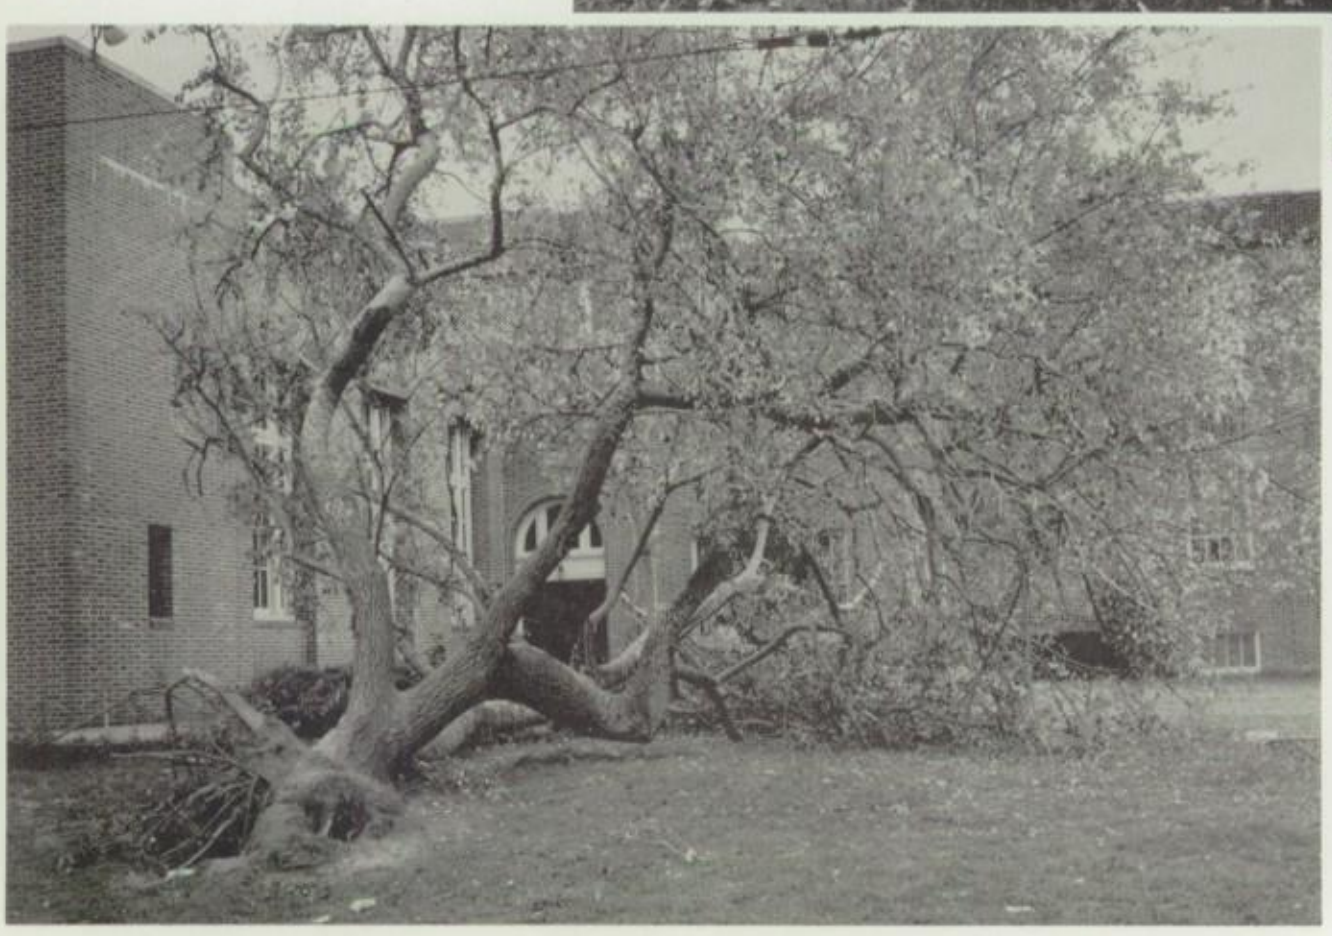


Uprooted Beauty

On Monday, September 12, the winds of Hurricane Donna rampaged throughout Sharon Hill. In the wake of these winds, a tradition was uprooted; the Silver Poplar, which once gave shade under the summer sun, was toppled by rushing winds and rain.

Planted in 1934, the tree was an attractive part of our school. Many members of the school and community recount many happy moments spent under the spreading tree.





"Woodsman, spare that tree!
Touch not a single bough!
In youth it sheltered me,
And I'll protect it now."

—GEORGE P. MORRIS

"Through youth's golden hours you've led me aright,
With precepts divinely fair."

Improvement—this has been the keynote of Mr. LeDonne's work during his first three years as Supervising Principal of the Sharon Hill Schools.

Mr. LeDonne earned his Bachelor of Arts degree at Waynesburg College; at Temple University he received his Master of Education degree.

Prior to his Sharon Hill days he taught at Bell Township and Darby High School.

When Mr. LeDonne came to Sharon Hill, he taught guidance, problems of democracy, and social living. Along with his teaching assignments he was an enthusiastic football coach. This fine background served him well when he became high school principal in 1955.

Mr. LeDonne has guided changes in the appearance of our school by installing or renovating facilities which have improved student spirit and community pride.

Fine co-operation between the faculty, administration, and School Board has brought about many improvements in our school.

The School Board's planning is evidenced in our new laboratory and newly-furnished commercial rooms. Although performing other full-time jobs, each member puts much study and thought into each problem before the Board adopts a solution and takes action.

Maxwell E. Kuebler
High School Principal

This year marks the completion of Mr. Kuebler's third year as principal of Sharon Hill High School.

He graduated from Ursinus College with a Bachelor of Science degree, and the University of Pennsylvania awarded him the degree of Master of Science in Education.

Having had 15 years of teaching experience and 8 years of administrative work, Mr. Kuebler is conscious of classroom and general school problems.

Appreciation of our many extracurricular offerings stems from his own experiences in coaching plays, debating, and baseball.

During his time at Sharon Hill, Mr. Kuebler has endeavored to promote continuing co-operation among the students, faculty, and administration.

"Do you want to buy a program?"

This was a familiar senior question at home football games.

The senior class also vended about 3,500 sizzling hot dogs, 7 jars of steaming coffee, crisp french fries, and candy. A new soda set-up proved to be a working attraction to the concessionaires as they dispensed tanks and tanks of fizzing soda to thirsty fans on the five sunny afternoons.

Glenn Sowell and Mary Ellen Bilbrough, concession stand chairmen, can tell you this was a happy, but hectic, project.

A DELIGHTFUL WINTER FANTASY

Junior Prom

January 31, 1960

Thoughtful parents serve tasty refreshments during the prom, and a buffet at Walbers-on-the-Delaware completed the night.

Our theme colors of green and white make a perfect setting for a winter night.

As the highlight of the evening Fred Grau, our class president, crowned Barbara Dickey Junior Prom Queen.

The anxious couples await the enchanting music of Ray Carr's Orchestra.

SENIOR PROM

June 2, 1961

Following the dinner, some of the people dance outside to the music of the "Crests."

Between dance numbers many of the prom-goers are seen enjoying the warm June air at White Manor Country Club.

The sun shone bright on May Day, 1961. The beautiful gowns and colorful costumes reflected the loveliness of the day.

As in previous years the reigning court was composed of seniors chosen by the student body.

This year the elementary school presented May Day. Their theme of "Storyland" consisted of skits by each grade.

A JAPANESE SNOW BELL TREE

I thought that I would never see
A Japanese Snow Bell tree.

A tree whose branches will bear the best
When its flowers are compared with the rest;

A tree that looks at our school all day
And shades the young ones as they play

A tree that may in Summer wear
A group of lazy children in her hair;

Upon whose bough shall be a plaque,
With the name of the class intact.

Poems are made by fools like me
But only the Senior Class provided this tree.

Hopes and problems filled the lives of the members of the 1961 junior class. Although having one more year before they became seniors, the juniors' many activities kept them busy.

The junior play, "Twelve Angry People," proved the dramatic abilities of many of the class members.

The second of their major activities, the Christmas candy sale, was successful in helping to strengthen their class treasury.

The biggest event of their junior year was the Junior Prom. It took many hours of planning and preparation, but it paid off by changing a cold January night into a warm and fun-filled evening as seen "From the Terrace."

Bringing their year to a close, the juniors look forward to their senior year, when they will experience the hardest, yet most wonderful, days of high school.

Card sale

Beginning their first year in senior high school, the Sophomore class can always look forward to many and varied activities. This year, as all through senior high, the class must now finance its own activities.

The Sophomores' first major money-making program was selling greeting cards during the first semester. The students worked hard and much was accomplished.

The second major activity was the Soph Hop. With the theme of "Twilight Time," the sophomores experienced their first formal dance.

This year the high school counted more heavily on its sophomores for athletic participation than ever before. Because of the number of boys and girls able to participate, the sophomores lent great support as either good reserves or, in some cases, the starting team.

The sophomores have a firm foundation on which to plan their future.

The freshman year begins four years of discovery, intensive study, and many rewards.

Perhaps this year is the most important, as each student chooses his course of study for the remainder of his high school days. Long-range plans are made for every student.

The highlight of the year, the Junior High Frolic, is sponsored by the Student Council; but the freshman class has full charge. In this way they learn responsibility and prepare socially, as well as academically, for their senior high school years.

Because of the advancements of our school's study program, a more prepared freshman class appears each year to help uphold the standards of our school and community.

Student Council

Each year the students at Sharon Hill get a chance to develop leadership by being a member of Student Council. Of course, not everyone can be a Student Council member; but those who are members benefit greatly from the experience.

The Council again sponsored many and varied activities.

A new activity, Dress-up Day, was initiated this year. On a designated day all the students were urged to dress up in their finery. This day was in addition to the usual Tag Day.

However, the most gratifying day for students and faculty was the day our Student Council handed the Delaware County Crippled Children's School Association a check for over $400 which the students donated toward the proposed school.

Spring elections assured us of good leaders to continue this year's good record.

Student Council officers—G. Sowell, President; H. Kerr, Treasurer; J. Bollinger, Vice-President; D. Kiley, Secretary—discuss an item on the next meeting's agenda.

through participation

Although this is only the second year Sharon Hill High School has held the Joe Berg Seminar, it has been highly successful.

One night every two weeks, a leader from industry, business, or education, speaks on selected topics to top.scholastic students. The Berg Seminar has proved both profitable and interesting to the student members. The following were participants: Row 1: V. Heller, J. Pater, F. Grau. Row 2: J. Berenson, B. Hehn, M. Baxter. Row 3: J. Cartwright, T. Butterfield, R. Selwood. Row 4: J. Natale, F. Sullivan, R. Stewart.

For the twenty-seventh consecutive year Sharon Hill High School has honored its outstanding students at the annual National Honor Society program.

This year the program was under the direction of a new sponsor, Mrs. Daisy Conquest.

Following the roll call and presentation of awards came the highlight of the program, a talk on education by Miss Rita Prescott, an experienced lawyer.

The National Honor Society honors students for scholarship, leadership, character, and service —traits which contribute so much to the future of our lives.

and novelties make up our SHA-HI.

Marie Halverson loads the mimeograph as Sandy Briscoe and Doris Buzard give copies the final check before "rolling the presses."

Bringing news of school events is the major function of the school newspaper, the SHA-HI.

"Better than ever" was the phrase used to describe this year's newspaper. Throughout the school year, the SHA-HI monthly reported all important news on clubs, teachers, students, and sports.

Semi-monthly, the staff sent information about the school and its activities to the Delaware County Daily Times.

"Tabbing Seniors," "Janet's Jabber," and "Senior Snaps" proved to be popular features.

Because of the Junior High Journalism Club, more junior high interest was evidenced by their numerous contributions.

An able staff, led by their capable editor, Bonnie Johnson, did an excellent job of organizing and editing. With high spirit and enthusiasm they can say "a job well done."

Janet Berenson, Andrea Costello, Ken Mayne, Marie Halverson, Mrs. Hammer, Janet Baumer and Sandy Briscoe admire the final product as Flossie MacGlaughlin, Betty Hasson, and Bonnie Johnson review their work.

Delays and dilemma

If you had walked into room 29 during activity or club period, what would you have seen?

Well, you might have seen Mrs. Beatty showing a typist some errors, Editor Mary Ann Cathers checking a write-up, Assistant Editor Eileen MacDonald hunting through the files for an old picture, or perhaps our Columbia Scholastic Press Association delegates reminiscing in a corner. All this and much more got our book to press.

However, there was a pleasant side also. Many nights the staff met at school or at Mrs. Beatty's home to finish last-minute work. Somehow, the work always seemed to turn into fun.

Even though the OWL had more than its share of bad breaks, the staff always pulled through at the twelfth hour.

Perhaps our band is the most unrewarded major activity, as they usually play to compliment another program.

The highlight of the year for the band again was the annual Band Concert, which proved to listeners that the Owl band can play more than the usual marches.

As a reward for the efforts of the Band members, their trip this year was to Annapolis to listen to the fine Navy band. New uniforms, which were designed by a Sharon Hill student, helped add to the confidence, pride, and appearance of our lively band.

and naturals in choral harmony.

Music, music, music—that's what can be heard by anyone passing the auditorium on Monday afternoons. The auditorium, where the enthusiastic members of the Senior Chorus are perfecting numerous choral arrangements for their next program, echoes as the voices shift from unison to harmony.

The chorus's new directress, Mrs. Bustard, has ably conducted them throughout the year. She has taken much of her spare time to help the members improve their methods and voices.

The chorus plays a substantial part in the activities of the school and community. Each year they present the Spring Concert, in addition to school assembly programs for Thanksgiving, Christmas, and Easter. At Christmas, the group staged "The Shepherd and His Lamb," a cantata arranged by senior English students for the enjoyment of the school and community.

Sticks and stumbles — all for a goal

Hustle, fight, and determination—all of these are synonyms for the spirit of the 1960 hockey squad.

With tri-captains Beth Singley, Janet Pater, and Mary Ann Cathers leading the way, our girls displayed talent and excellent sportsmanship.

As a result of the team's play they achieved 2 wins and 3 ties, which bolster their hope for a better season next year.

We cannot forget the diligence of Miss Knopf and Mrs. Tallent, or the long hours they invested in our team.

Looking ahead, we anticipate praise for our future teams and players as each year we show decisive improvement.

Shouts of encouragement from George McHugh and Coach Young proved helpful as the look of despair at halftime on the faces of John Baillie, Van Steel, John Bollinger, Andy Ohlson, and Stan Eichinger turned to satisfaction as Sharon Hill overcame a 12-0 score to tie Darby 12-12 at the final gun.

Progress—the result of time, work, and desire—is the most appropriate word to describe the Owls' performance on the gridiron this year.

In the beginning of the season Coach Young felt that if his athletes worked hard, they would match the preceding years' performances. However, as the season progressed, coaches Young, Stengel, and Savastano and the many Owl followers watched the Hillers roll to their finest season since Mr. Young has been head mentor at Sharon Hill.

The players and coaches all hope the confidence and skill will continue to develop and bring many victories to Shady Hill.

Awaiting the start of practice, coaches F. Savastano, R. Young, and R. Stengel pose on the Owls' playing field.

make victories.

Squad members G. Sowell and M. Lightcap sport new Navy-blue team blazers as they leave for a game.

For the second year in a row Sharon Hill displayed one of its finest teams. The bigger and stronger Owls literally rolled over many of their opponents to decisive defeats.

The Hillers ended the season with a 17-3 log, which was bettered by only one other high school in Delaware County.

Although many victories were recorded, the Sharon Hill courtmen always seemed to have trouble because of a let-down or over-confidence.

The entire year was sparked by standout performances which helped the team finally end in a tie for the section championship. However, on the night of the playoff the Owls just couldn't find the range and lost to Darby, 59-46.

Although the seniors carried a big load, the two juniors, Leo Sullivan and John Bollinger, made many game-saving plays and should mould a solid nucleus for next year.

H. Kitching hopefully anticipates the outcome of G. Jordan's fight for the loose ball.

G. Jordan gives 100% in an attempt to stop Darby's field goal try.

The predominantly underclass Owlettes, under the coaching of Miss Knopf, started the long climb toward a well-organized and balanced team.

Because of the many new members on the squad and the lack of experienced players, the Hiller girls suffered many discouraging defeats.

After the Owlettes got their first taste of victory, however, their spirit and confidence were renewed. A creditable showing at Eddystone gives the returning letter-winners and the coach hopes for a victory-filled season next year.

Only the dense clouds look on as L. Sullivan chucks the ball in to E. Martin.

Although Sharon Hill has had a baseball team for many years, not since the first game was played at Sharon Hill has so much inexperience and youth marked our squad.

The squad consisted of a new coach, Mr. Savastano, and mostly freshmen and sophomores, but no seniors.

The season started with many mistakes, and as a result defeat came to the Owls. However, Coach Savastano found the team he wanted; and after playing some games together, they began to win a few games.

The future teams are sure to bring excitement and victory to Sharon Hill as each player improves with experience.

At the new season's beginning, Coach Knopf found little returning experience in the team. This meant hours of work to prepare for their five scheduled games. What the team lacked in experience, however, they made up in spirit.

Mastering the art of fielding and hitting was a slow process, but as the season progressed, tremendous improvement was seen.

After four defeats, the girls ended the season with a thrilling victory over Eddystone, 3-2—a fitting ending to a sport and its season.

Big surprises come

Varsity coach Mr. Young and Junior High coach Mr. Smith confer on the Owls' chances in a coming meet.

Looking at this year's track squad, one would think we did not have much of a chance to win meets. However, the Sharon Hill squad—only eleven strong—compiled a 3-1 record in dual meets for the best season for any Sharon Hill squad.

Track coach Mr. Young did an outstanding job bringing out the best in his men.

The one disappointment of the year, however, was our poor showing at the District I meet where only one boy qualified for the state meet. The future is bright, though, as that one boy, Bob Quinn, was a sophomore.

Tony Raffaele, Proprietor

The codfish lays ten thousand eggs,
The homely hen lays one.
The codfish never cackles
To tell you what she's done.
And so we scorn the codfish,
While the humble hen we prize,
Which only goes to show you
That it pays to advertise.

Three Cheers!

The picture-taking, copywriting, deadlines, and hours of fun are all behind us now. We have had an experience which will never be forgotten.

The pages of this yearbook embrace memories of many happy—and, alas, a few sad—moments of working together.

First in our minds is MRS. BEATTY, our advisor, who always was ready with advice and inspiration when we needed it most.

We also would like to thank MR. JOBSON, our TAYLOR representative, for his helpful hints.

The artists of the OWL appreciated the excellent help and ideas offered by MR. JOHNSON.

The wonderful co-operation showed by MR. GREEN and MR. BALIBAN of SARONY STUDIOS will long be remembered.

We appreciate greatly the help of the BOOSTERS, PATRONS, and ADVERTISERS who have made this book financially possible.

Last, but not least, we wish to thank our PARENTS and TEACHERS who have made so many sacrifices to help us work on our book.

All we can say is, "Thank you, everyone, for the 1961 OWL."

Sincerely,

The 1961 OWL Staff
